1. _____ The gift of uniquely knowing when and how to “breathe in courage” for another person’s spiritual benefit.
2. _____ The gift of consistently and effectively making people feel at home with space to be and food to eat.
3. _____ The gift of joyfully contributing beyond a tithe to financially support gospel ministries.
4. _____ The gift to feel comfortable in a culture different from one’s own native culture, and to effectively do ministry in the adopted culture.
5. _____ The gift to spiritually guide and provide spiritual care for a group of believers. The group may be small, like a New Testament house church, or large, like the size of a typical American congregation—80 people.
6. _____ The gift to provide support and assistance so other people may better use their spiritual gifts.
7. _____ The gift empowered by a unique capacity to help people who have unusual levels of need, whether the needs be physical, emotional, cognitive, and/or spiritual.
8. _____ The gift to organize human and physical resources so the spiritual gifts of the church can be used most effectively.

9. _____ The gift to lead several churches and/or at-large groups in ministry.
10. _____ The gift of gracefully and consistently helping others to fulfill task needs in their life and/or work.
11. _____ The gift of effectively guiding people by creating a community consensus and direction to fulfill God's will.
12. _____ The gift of uniquely understanding and communicating biblical truths for spiritual living.
13. _____ The gift of effectively knowing with whom, how and when to share Jesus Christ with seekers.
14. _____ The giftedness of one to pray with frequency, duration, and effectiveness for God's will to be performed in a particular matter.
15. _____ The giftedness of one to communicate scriptural truths by making God—revealed as the Creator, Christ, and the Spirit—to be more spiritually experienced by worshipers.
16. _____ The gift of uniquely bringing clarity from confusion by understanding and communicating God's will. The person is informed by Scripture and the Spirit; his or her prophecy should be discerned by the church.
17. _____ The gift to stir up people into gospel actions by clarifying for them their God given potential and responsibility.
18. _____ The gift to learn biblical truths that reveal profound insights for spiritual living, and to research information from society which help people to apply the gospel.
19. _____ The giftedness of knowing how to clarify and communicate spiritual truths for the church during times of confusion and/or crisis.
20. _____ This gift is clustered with other gifts and is the unique capacity for trusting God to accomplish a Divine promise in a particular matter.
21. _____ The giftedness of one to perceive whether an idea or action operates with Christ-centered motivation.
